

POSITION DESCRIPTION

Financial Analyst

Description

The Mercer Capital financial analyst program provides a unique opportunity to develop professionally shoulder-to-shoulder with talented and committed individuals in a growing firm. As an analyst at Mercer Capital, you will gain a broad range of experience in corporate finance providing a variety of financial advisory services. Analysts gain exposure to valuation of businesses and securities for the purposes of financial reporting, dispute resolution, employee stock ownership plans, and estate planning, among other things. Analysts will also gain exposure to investment banking services related to M&A and other corporate restructuring projects. Analysts are responsible for a range of job activities including client communication, travel, report writing, financial modeling and analysis, internal development, etc. The financial analyst position is both writing and mathematics intensive.

From your experience as a Mercer Capital financial analyst, you will gain an understanding of the internal and external forces that drive value in business. Mercer Capital encourages professional growth by providing institutional support for career development such as the CFA program. Mercer Capital also offers incentives for employee retention via participation in the company ESOP (employee stock ownership plan), 401K, and profit sharing plan.

The creative, intellectual, and entrepreneurial environment at Mercer Capital rewards smart, talented, inquisitive, and self-motivated individuals who are looking for a challenge.
